Your 2024 network health checklist

Mark off all the below with a "Y" or "N" if you have or have not experienced them in your enterprise:

Consistently good application performance:
Your applications respond swiftly in all locations and employees remain productive
Y N

Positive user feedback:
You see high satisfaction levels from internal and external users of your sites or services which contribute to a strong brand image
Y N

Visibility and control:
You have a clear view of your entire network infrastructure down to site level from wherever you are
Y N

Quick issue resolution times:
Your local-language IT teams have the bandwidth to address concerns 24/7, minimizing downtime
Y N

Oversight of Internet estate:
You can measure the health and performance of your network accurately and make data-backed decisions, cost savings, and ensure you're fit-for-purpose
Y N

Efficient multi-currency handling:
Your accounts payable finance teams have the systems and processes in place to deal with all local supplier invoices and currencies wherever you do business
Y N

Robust security:
Your network is secure and effectively safeguards sensitive data, ensuring compliance
Y N

High bandwidth:
Your network has ample bandwidth that supports the seamless transfer of large files and data-intensive applications, ensuring smooth day-to-day operations
Y N

Proactive monitoring:
You have a system or software in place that performs regular checks of your network health and maintains network integrity
Y N

Low packet loss:
You see minimal data packet loss, few disruptions and good data integrity
Y N

Efficient resource utilization:
You have complete oversight of your infrastructure and can make data-backed decisions on resource allocation and cost savings
Y N

Effective site design:
Your site traffic distribution is well balanced and supports your required application performance and availability
Y N

If you mostly answered "Yes" to all of the above, then congratulations you have good network health!

However, if you answered "No" even a few times, you would benefit from exploring solutions to enhance your network health and performance.

Optimize your network with Expereo

With a product portfolio of Global Internet connectivity solutions tailored to meet any of the needs outlined above, working with Expereo means the best possible connection – consistently and constantly.

Reach your digital future faster, wherever you do business.

LET'S TALK ABOUT YOUR NEEDS TODAY

expereo
faster to the future